

From the Diary of a Translator: Lost & Found, Lost Objects (and Subjects)

A DIGRESSION UPON TWO RECENT BOOKLETS

by Rossella Bernascone

Two unusual books on translation appeared in 2015: a poetry book – Tradurre è un bacio by Nicola Gardini – and a children’s book – Lost in Translation by Ella Frances Sanders, translated by Ilaria Piperno. An opportunity for the author of this article to reminisce and reflect on the profession she loves.
